FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

TMG Founder and President, Joseph C. Barto III, presents the 2011 New Horizons Educational Center Honorariums at the 2011 Career and Technical Recognition Ceremony

June 4, 2011, Hampton, Virginia- Joe Barto, Founder and President of TMG, Inc. presented the 2011 New Horizons Regional Education Center Honorariums at the annual Career and Technical Recognition Ceremony on Saturday, June 4, 2011. The event was held at noon at the Hampton University Convocation Center in Hampton, Virginia. Mr. Barto is a Director of the New Horizons Regional Education Center Foundation Board. Since 2004, when Mr. Barto created the Welder Honorarium Program, it has grown to help a total of twenty-five winners by 2011. Since its inception, TMG has donated over $9,800 to this program. The Honorarium provides funds to graduates who are entering the workforce to defray the costs associated with full time employment-- like equipment, uniforms, reliable transportation and even fuel for that transportation. The criteria as set by New Horizons Center reflects success in the workplace-- productivity, attendance, accomplishment, leadership, and being a team player as defined by their instructor just as their performance on the job will be evaluated by their immediate supervisor.

During his remarks, Mr. Barto said, "It was our job as educators and those who support them, us on the stage, and those wonderfully talented and committed instructors, to provide (these graduates) with the skills they need to pursue the career of their choice. If we have done our jobs correctly, we have propelled these students into meaningful jobs putting those skills to work."

Joe has said, "My best day is seeing young people excited about their future with a gleam in their eye and looking forward to what is arguably their best day--their first day on the job and beginning their lives as contributing Americans. Great day for me--better day for them... and not a bad day for us parents either."

Congratulations to the New Horizons class of 2011!
